

FOODWAYS – Accessibility Considerations

Please see here for information regarding general building accessibility.

Exhibition-specific accessibility considerations:

- The Gallery and the exhibition are step-free and equipped with automatic doors.
- Large-print Ways of Thinking (exhibition guide) is available for consultation at the reception desk.
- The work Kitchen Codex, 2021, by Patrick Cruz is displayed on two tables low to the ground. You are welcome to sit on the available stools, or on the floor cushions to get close to the work.
- In Room B, certain documents are encased in a tabletop vitrine that are 91 cm (3 ft) in height. The clearance under the tables is 72 cm (28.5 in).
- In Room C, overhead sound plays at variable volume levels.
 - The video Did You Eat Rice?, 2017, projected onto the back wall of room C is 53 minutes in length and plays on the hour. When not playing, the room will be dark.
 - There are multiple seats available in the space including bean bags and a small couch with a back rest and arm rests.
 - The audio for the video work Janchi Guksu (Banquet Noodles) is played on over-ear wired headphones. Headphone fit is adjustable. Sound levels are fixed.
- One area (Room D) may be dimly lit when the space is not being activated. You are welcome to borrow a flashlight from the reception desk or use a cell phone to illuminate your pathway if needed.
- There is limited installed seating within the exhibition spaces. Lightweight wooden stools are available around the work Kitchen Codex and can be used as mobile seating. Please return them to the installation when finished.
- Guided tours with visual descriptions for blind and low-vision visitors are available upon request. Please contact Prakash Krishnan, coordinator, public programs and education by email (prakash.krishnan@concordia.ca) or by phone (514-848-2424 #4787) to schedule a visit.
